

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

Siemens Aktiengesellschaft has acquired Inspekto, an AI-enabled machine vision software company headquartered in Heilbronn, Germany. Inspekto enables manufacturers, of any scale and profile, to stay competitive by automating visual inspection without vision experts and intensive production data.

Inspekto will become part of Digital Industries, business unit Factory Automation having its headquarter in Nuremberg, Germany. Factory Automation is an industrial automation provider driving the digital transformation forward with its customers.

Siemens will leverage the Inspekto AI-enabled machine vision potential with its global presence and deep digital industrial knowledge and thus ensure technological benefits for all its customers.

Inspekto's innovative AI technology and capabilities are a valuable addition to the Siemens industrial AI software portfolio. The main use case is easy-to-use automated visual quality inspection based on image processing.

Now, under the roof of Siemens, we are therefore pleased to continue being your reliable partner on our common path to ensure quality in your production.

Inspekto will continue to trade as a company and we will stay to our commitments.
